ABSTRACT

The manual of standard Turkmen language is designed to teach basic language skills that Peace Corps volunteers need during a tour in Turkmenistan. An introductory section gives information about the Turkmen language, including a brief history, notes on the alphabet, vowel and consonant sounds, rules of vowel harmony, and specific grammatical forms (nominal and verbal words, affixes, articles, personal pronouns, postpositions, relative clauses, complex sentences, word order). Lessons are organized by topic: personal identification and greetings; conversations with hosts; food and food etiquette; transportation; getting, giving, and clarifying directions; shopping; communication systems; medical issues; communication in social situations; and workplace communication. Each lesson includes some or all of these elements: cultural notes on the topic in question, a list of intended competencies, a brief dialogue in Turkmen, a vocabulary list, and grammar and vocabulary notes. Appended materials consist of the dialogues in English, calendar-related vocabulary, numbers, terms of relationship, forms of address, anatomy and health, school terminology, notes on verb conjugation, and a glossary of the words contained in the dialogues. Authors' Preface

This manual of the standard Turkmen language is intended to facilitate the acquisition of basic language skills that Peace Corps volunteers will need to enrich their tour in Turkmenistan. Conceivably, its materials may b; used in conjunction with a textbook for teaching Turkmen at the university level.

Mr. Tyson and Professor Clark of the Department Central Eurasian

Studies at Indiana University collaborated on and share responsibility for both the Turkmen and the English portions of the text. At the same time, the authors wish to acknowledge their gratitude for the assistance of the following individuals.

This project benefitted greatly from the assistance of a number of individuals at Magtymguly Turkmen State University in Ashgabat, namely Professors Rejepali Nazarov and Guichmyrat Durdymyradov, who helped Mr. Tyson tremendously during his fieldwork in Turkmenistan. The Peace Corps staff in Ashgabat, especially Mr. Mark Holt and Ms. Brenda Oldfield, also assisted Mr. Tyson in many ways during his stay.

Project concultant Ms. Nancy Clair made numerous suggestions that helped to improve the text. All shortcomings, however, remain with the authors.

A Brief Introduction to the Turkmen Language

Turkmen is a member of the widespread Turkic language family. These languages, whose speakers number around 150 million people, are spoken in Siberia (Yakut), China (Uygur), Central Asia (Turkmen, Uzbek, Kirgiz, Kazak), Russia (Tatar), and the Near East (Turkish). Turkic languages share a common grammar and vocabulary, but only a few of them are close enough today to ease mutual understanding. Turkmen speech is so distinctive that it constitutes an independent Turkic language, spoken by more than 2,700,000 people (1989).

Standard Turkmen was formed in the Soviet period primarily on the basis of the dialects spoken by Teke and Yomut groups of the Turkmen people, but it is not identical with any single dialect. In grammar and vocabulary, Turkmen has many features in common with Azeri and Turkish and with some dialects of Turkic speakers in parts of Afghanistan, Iran, and Uzbekistan. Russian constructions and words in the standard literary language are a visible reminder of the Soviet period. Uzbek has exerted an influence on the speech and vocabulary of Turkmen spoken in the eastern part of the republic. Arabic and Persian words and constructions form a classical heritage of the centuries of use of the Central Asian Turki literary language in Arabic script.

Standard literary Turkmen has been written in a modified Cyrillic script since 1940. From 1928 to 1940, Turkmen was written in a Latin alphabet.

The current Turkmen alphabet does not represent accurately all the sounds of the speech of educated Turkmen. This is especially true of the vowel sounds. The alphabet consists of 36 letters and two signs in the following alphabetic order: A a, B б, B в, Γ г, Д д, E e, Ë ë, Ж ж, Ж ж, З з, И и, Й й, К к, Л л, М м, Н н, Ң ң, О о, Ө ө, П п, Р р, С с, Т т, У у, Ү ү, Ф ф, Х х, Ц ц, Ш ш, Щ щ, ъ, Ы ы, ь, Э э, Ә ә, Ю ю, Я я.

Vowels

Beginners should take care to learn the difference between "short" and "long" vowels, because each vowel letter or letter-group in Turkmen can be pronounced with "short" or "long" duration. This difference often is all that distinguishes the meanings of two words.

"Short" vowels are approximately like simple vowels in standard American English; for example a in 'call'. Pronouncing a "long" vowel requires keeping the mouth in the same position for a longer time, for the space of two vowels. English has no true equivalents of long vowels, because it has "diphthongs" or double vowels that are different from each other; for example, in pronouncing the word 'wrote' the English speaker actually makes o into two different vowels (oh--ooh).

The 17 vowels of Turkmen are represented by the following letters or letter-group:

- a Pronounced "short" as English a in the word 'call.' In words with a long a, it is pronounced as a drawn out English aa in 'bah (humbug').
- Pronounced only short as English a in 'ant'. In words with a long a, it is pronounced as a drawn out a as in 'ant'.
- 9, e Pronounced short as English a in 'say', but without the glide into a diphthong (say-ee). There are only two Turkmen words with a long e: δep 's/he will give' and rep 's/he will come'. The letter 3 is used at the beginning of a word, and e elsewhere in a word.
- Pronounced short as English u in 'radium'. In words with a long ы, it is pronounced approximately as a drawn out u in 'radium'.
- Pronounced short as English e in 'end'. In words with a long u, it is prounounced approximately as English e ea in 'be easy'.
- o Pronounced short as English o in 'stone' but without the glide into a dipthong (sto-oon). In words with a long o, it is prounounced approximately as a drawn out English o in 'oh'.

- y Pronounced short as English u in 'truth'. In words with a long y, this sound is pronounced approximately as a drawn-out English oo in 'ooh'.
- Pronounced short as German ö in 'Körper' [body], which may be pronounced by pronouncing e and rounding the lips. In words with a long e, it is prounounced with a longer duration than short e.
- Pronounced short as German ü in 'Brücke' [bridge], which may be pronounced by forming i and rounding the lips.
- This is the only long vowel represented distinctly in the Turkmen alphabet. In words with a long γ , this sound is pronounced with a longer duration than γ .

The following doublets (two words spelled the same but pronounced differently) will illustrate the distinction between short and long vowels in Turkmen (with the exception of 3, e and 3)

SHORT		LONG
ат	'horse'	ат	'name'
гыз	'get excited!' (imperative)	гыз	'girl'
бил	'know!' (imperative)	бил	'waist'
от	'grass'	от .	'fire'
өч	'extinguish!' (imperative)	өч	'revenge'
гурт	'dry cheese, curd'	гурт	'wolf; worm'
дүш	'come down!' (imperative)	дүйш	'dream'

Beginners should keep in mind that the Turkmen alphabet distinguishes only between short γ and long үй. Although similar in appearance, short y is not distinguished from long y by the letters уй -- in a word like дуйгы 'sense, feeling' the letters уй are pronounced as English ewey in 'Dewey'.

Consonants

Turkmen consonants are represented by the following letters:

- π Pronounced as English p in 'pen'.
- Pronounced as English t in 'stop'.
- к Pronounced as English k in 'keep' when in words with the vowels ə, e, и, e, y but as English c in 'call' when in words with the vowels a, ы, o, y.
- 6 Pronounced as English b in 'boy' at the beginning of a word and similar to v in some other positions.
- д Pronounced as English d in 'deep'.
- Pronounced as English g in 'geese' when in words with the vowels ϑ , e, \varkappa , ϑ , γ but as a sound like English gh in 'yoghurt' in words with a, ω , o, y.
- м Pronounced as English m in 'meat'.
- н Pronounced as English n in the word 'snow'.
- ң Pronounced as English ng in 'sing'.
- л Pronounced as English I in 'look'.
- Pronounced the same way as English r in 'drill', but with a flap of the tounge.
- c Pronounced as English th in 'thin' in Turkmen (including Arabic and Persian) words, but as English s in 'sun' in words coming from Russian.

- Pronounced as English th in 'then' in Turkmen (including Arabic and Persian) words, but as English z in 'zoo' in words coming from Russian.
- Pronounced as English sh in 'share'.
- ч Pronounced as English ch in 'check'.
- x Pronounced as English s in 'treasure' in words from Russian.
- ж Pronounced as English j in 'juice'.
- x Pronounced as English h in 'hall' in some Turkmen words, but as ch in English-German 'Bach' in other Turkmen words.
- ф Pronounced as English f in 'four'. '
- Pronounced as English w in 'wagon' in Turkmen (including Arabic and Persian) words, but as English v in 'very' in words from Russian.
- й Pronounced as English y in 'yes'.
- я Pronounced as English ya in 'yawn'.
- e Pronounced as English ye in 'yea verily', but only when this letter appears at the beginning of a word or after a vowel. When it appears after a consonant, it is pronounced as English a in 'say'.
- ë Pronounced as English yo in 'yoke'.
- ю Pronounced as English you in 'youth'.
- Тhese letters and signs are used in words from Russian. Turkmen often pronounce ц as English s and щ as English sh, and many times disregard the signs ь and ъ altogether.

Several Turkmen letters have unexpected pronunciations:

- c Pronounced as English th in 'theory' or 'math', instead of s. (except in Russian words).
- Pronounced as English th in 'their' or 'mother', instead of z (except in Russian words).

Several Turkmen letters may have two very distinct pronunciations:

- Pronounced as English h in 'hill' and 'aha' in some Turkmen words, but as a harsh sound without English equivalent in other Turkmen words. The latter is similar to the soft g sound, but without a voiced quality. In Russian words, this letter is always pronounced as a harsh sound.
- Pronounced as English g in 'gill' and 'organ' when the Turkmen word has any of the vowels \mathfrak{d} , \mathfrak{e} , \mathfrak{u} , \mathfrak{d} , \mathfrak{g} but as a soft sound without an English equivalent when the Turkmen word has any of the vowels \mathfrak{d} , \mathfrak{u} , \mathfrak{d} , \mathfrak{g} . It is similar to the x sound, but with a voiced quality. In words from Russian, \mathfrak{r} is always pronounced as in 'gill'.

One set of letters and their corresponding sounds may present difficulties for the beginner. These represent the sound y plus any of the vowel sounds:

- я (English ya in 'yawn'; long: no English equivalent)
- e (English ye in 'foyer'; long: no equivalent)
- йи (English yea in 'yeast'; long: no equivalent)
- ë (English yo in 'yoke'; long: no equivalent)
- ю (English you in 'youth'; long: no equivalent)
- йы (roughly English yu in 'yuk'; long: no `quivalent)
- йе (y plus vowel like German oe in 'Goethe'; long: no equivalent)
- йү (y plus vowel like German ü in 'füss'; long: no equivalent)

Vowel Harmony

Students of Turkmen should be prepared to learn a number of rules of pronunciation of vowels, as well as of consonants that are not reflected in the script. One of the most distinctive features of Turkmen is vowel harmony.

The vowels of Turkmen words share similarities that produce a kind of "harmony" in speech. Turkmen words may contain only vowels pronounced in the front of the mouth:

- ә әлем 'world', гүнә 'fault, sin'
- э, е эркек 'male, man', гөзел 'beautiful'
- и илери 'forward', гүйчли 'powerful, strong'
- ө өри 'pasture', сөймек 'to love'
- ү үзеңңи 'stirrup', мүмкин 'possible, permissible'

Or, Turkmen words may contain only vowels pronounced in the back of the mouth:

- а ачык 'open', батыр 'hero'
- ы ынсан 'human', йылан 'snake'
- о оюн 'game', copar 'question'
- y улы 'big', гушак 'belt, sash'

All Turkmen words observe this kind of "front-back" harmony. Many also observe a second kind of harmony that affects the vowels of endings. Turkmen vowels may be pronounced with or without a rounding of the mouth. Those pronounced with rounding are the following: $\mathbf{o} \ \mathbf{y} \ \mathbf{e} \ \mathbf{y}$

Those vowels pronounced without rounding are: а ә е ы и

When a Turkmen word contains a rounded vowel, then the ending also is pronounced with a rounded vowel. However, Turkmen spelling does not reflect this:

буз 'ice'

бузлык 'glacier' = буз+лык (pronounced бузлук)

бузлы 'icy' = буз+лы (pronounced бузлу)

NOMINAL AND VERBAL WORDS

Turkmen has two basic types of words: nominals and verbals. Nominals are 'noun-like' words and verbals are 'verb-like' words. Endings (suffixes) of various kinds are added to both.

Nominals include classes of words that in English are called nouns, pronouns, adjectives, some adverbs, and verbal nouns; for example, Turkmen депдер 'notebook', улы 'big'. As in English, a Turkmen adjective may stand before a noun or serve as a verbal noun:

Депдерим улы.

'My notebook is big.'

Улы депдерим...

'My big notebook is...'

Verbals include those kinds of words that are equivalent to — English verbs and gerunds; for example, гит 'go!' (imperative from the verb гитмек) and гитип 'going'.

Beside nominals and verbals, Turkmen has a small number of particles, conjunctions, and similar words which do not take endings; for example, xem 'also, too' and Be 'and.'

As a rule, the last syllable of a Turkmen word is stressed. However, particles and certain suffixes added to the ends of words are not stressed.

SUFFIXATION

The meanings of Turkmen words, as well as their grammatical functions within sentences, are indicated by adding elements called suffixes to the ends of the words. These suffixes or endings are clearly distinguishable as such, especially in writing; for example:

гызларым = гыз+лар+ым

'my daughters' = 'daughter+s+my'

WORD FORMATION SUFFIXES

Turkmen forms new words, both nominals and verbals, by means of suffixation, or the addition of endings to existing roots and words. The addition of a suffix to a nominal word creates a new nominal or verbal word:

Tage 'new, fresh'

тэзелик = тэзе+лик 'innovation, reform, news' тэзелемек = тэзе+ле+мек 'to reform. renew'

Adding a suffix to a verbal word results in the formation of a nominal or verbal word with a new lexical meaning:

тэзелемек 'to reform, renew' тэзеленмек = тэзе+ле+н+мек 'to be reformed, renewed' тәзелеме = тәзе+ле+ме 'reform, renewal'

GRAMMATICAL SUFFIXES

The grammatical functions of Turkmen words within sentences are expressed by adding suffixes to them. Such suffixes indicate number, case, mood or tense. The addition of a grammatical suffix to a word changes its relationship to other words in the sentence; however, it does not change its lexical meaning.

Lexical Meaning

Grammatical Meaning

Les ,ese,

гөз+и 'the eye' (object)

гөзсиз 'without an eye'

гөзүми юмдум 'I shut my eye'

гөзлемек 'look for, search' гөзледим 'l searched'

PLURAL SUFFIX

The Turkmen plural suffix +πap may be added to a nominal to indicate that there is more than one subject or object of a sentence. When the subject of a verb is plural, this ending may or may not br added:

гыз 'girl, daughter'

гызлар 'girls, daughters'

Гызлар гитди(лер)

'The girls left.'

Гызлары гөрдү(лер)

'They saw the girls.'

After a numeral, the plural suffix is not added:

диш 'tooth'

дишлер 'teeth'

ики 'two'

ики диш 'two teeth'

CASE SUFFIXES

Case suffixes express relationships between nominals to which they are added and other nominals or verbals. Their English equivalents include 'in', 'at', 'on', 'from', 'of', 'the', and other ideas:

меклеп 'school'

мекдепде 'in the school'

өй 'house'

ee to the house'

Ашгабат 'Ashgabat' Ашгабатдан 'from Ashgabat'

POSSESSION

There are several ways to express possession in Turkmen. A common way is the addition of possessive suffixes to a nominal кака 'father'

какам 'my father'

ей 'house'

өйүң 'your house' (singu'ar)

дост 'friend'

досты 'his/her friend'

A second way to express possession is to form the possessive relationship construction. In Turkmen, the possessor is placed before the possessed. An example of this type of construction in English is 'my father's house' or 'the house of my father', where 'father' is the possessor and 'house' is the possessed. The suffix +иң 'of' often is added to the possessor, while the possessive suffix +(c)и always is added to the possessed:

кака+м+ың өй+и какамың өйи

'father+my+of house+his' = 'my father's house'

INFINITIVE SUFFIX

The Turkmen equivalent of 'to' in English infinitives of verbs ('to see', 'to go', etc.) is created by adding the suffix +Mak, +Mek to the verbal stem.

окамак 'to read'

гитмек 'to go'

Without this suffix the stem of the verb is equivalent to the familiar or impolite imperative mood:

ока! 'read!'

гит! 'go, leave!'

MOOD SUFFIXES

Turkmen adds suffixes to verb stems to express moods like the imperative or the conditional:

гөрмек 'to see' (infinitive)

rep! 'see, look!'

repce 'if s/he sees'

TENSE SUFFIXES

To express tenses like past, present, and future, Turkmen adds suffixes to a verbal stem; for example, the definite past tense suffix +nu:

башламак 'to begin' (infinitive)

башлады 's/he began'

Turkmen uses suffixes to distinguish between definite action (action which certainly occurred or occurs or will occur) and indefinite action (action which possibly or habitually occurred or possibly will occur) in the past and future:

гитмек 'to go' (infinitive)

гитжек 's/he (certainly) will go'

гидер 's/he goes, (and possibly) will go'

ARTICLES

Turkmen does not have words equivalent to the English indefinite article 'a/an' or to the definite article 'the.' Instead, it distinguishes a definite subject or object by placing the numeral бир 'one' (or some other definite word) before the nominal:

Бир китап бар. 'There is one book (=a book).'

Бир китап окадым. 'I read a book.' (definite past)

Without the numeral or other definite words, the subject or object nominal is indefinite:

Китап бар. 'There are books.'

Китап окадым. 'I have read books.'

Another way to make an object definite is to add the ending +ы to the nominal:

Китабы окадым. 'I read the book.' (definite past)

PERSONAL PRONOUNS

Turkmen has both singular and plural forms for personal pronouns. The first person forms are мен 'l' and биз 'we'. In the second person, the form сен is the singular and familiar 'you' (older English 'thou') and сиз is the plural 'you', as well as the polite singular 'you'.

Turkmen does not have distinct words for 'he,' 'she,' and 'it'. Instead, it expresses all of these with the pronoun $o\pi$. The listener must determine the gender from other words in the sentence or from context.

POSTPOSITIONS

In Turkmen, relationship words like 'inside', 'with', and so on, are placed after the nominals they are related to. These position words are equivalent to English prepositions, and mostly are nominals themselves:

өйиң ичинде

'inside the house'

достум б

'with my friend'

RELATIVE CLAUSES

One of the most difficult constructions for a student of Turkmen is the relative clause. The English 'who' of the sentence 'my friend who went to Ashgabat' is expressed in Turkmen by adding the suffix $+e_H$ ($+a_H$, $+a_H$) to a verbal stem and by reversing the order of the subject and object:

Ашгабат+а гит+ен дост+ум

'Ashgabat+to go+he/past friend+my'

= Ашгабада гиден достум

'My friend who went to Ashgabat...'

COMPLEX SENTENCES

Another difficult formation in Turkmen is the complex sentence. Spoken Turkmen only semetimes uses the conjunction Be 'and' to connect two sentences together. The English 'and' of a sentence 'he went home and read the book' is often indicated in Turkmen by adding the suffix $+\mathtt{N}\pi$ ($+\mathtt{N}\pi$) to the first verbal stem:

Өй+е гит+ип китап+ы ока+ды

'Home+to go+ing book+the read+he/past'

= Өе гидип китабы окады.

'He went home and read the book.'

WORD ORDER

In a normal Turkmen sentence the subject is placed first, the object second, and the verb or predicate last:

SUBJECT + OBJECT + PREDICATE

Дост+ум Ашгабат+а гит+ди

'friend+my Ashgabat+to go+he/past'

= Достум Ашгабада гитди.

'My friend went to Ashgabat.'

THE TURKMEN

Turkmen history can be traced back for centuries. As part of large groups of Turkic peoples who moved from east to west and settled Central Asia, the Turkmen maintained a nomadic and semi-nomadic lifestyle into the 19th century. Russian conquest and later Soviet rule led most Turkmen to adopt a more sedentary existence. During the Soviet period, much of the land once controlled by the Turkmen became the Turkmen Soviet Socialist Republic; other areas fell within the borders of Iran and Afghanistan.

Today there are approximately 2.8 million Turkmen in Turkmenistan (total population 4 million). Some estimates of Turkmen living outside of Turkmenistan run as high as 2 million. Other major ethnic groups in Turkmenistan include the Russians (10%) and Uzbeks (6%). Administratively, the country is divided into five provinces (вилаят): Ахал in the south with the country's capital, Ashgabat; Балкан in the west along the Caspian Sea; Дашховуз in the northeast; Чәржев in the east bordering Uzbekistan; and the Мары province in the south east.

Aside from purely administrative divisions, the Turkmen distinguish themselves according to "tribal" group. Even today almost all Turkmen are conscious of belonging to a specific tribe or cian. Variations in terms of material culture and dialect of the tribes may be great. Marriage patterns continue to demonstrate the strength of tribal bonds (many Turkmen marry only within their "tribe") and it is not uncommon for villages to be grouped according to clan or lineage. It is often possible to guess tribal affiliation with knowledge of birthplace. The largest and most politically powerful tribe is the Teke of southcentral Turkmenistan (ir luding Ashgabat). Other important tribes include the $\partial pcapbi$ of the east and the Emyt of the north and west.

Since Turkmenistan's independence in 1990, efforts have been made to regain some of the cultural heritage lost under Soviet rule. Islam, the religion of the Turkmen, has been revived (in a non-politicized form) and the Turkmen language has been declared the state language.

An important aspect of Turkmen culture concerns the formalities connected with greeting, hospitality and addressing one another. Turkmen has numerous phrases used as greetings. Aside from personal affairs, it is not uncommon for people to inquire about the health and well-being of family members and the general state of the household. Lengthy exchanges of this kind are especially frequent among people of rural background.

The greeting эссалавмалейким! is common when in more formal situations (when people first meet, when they have not seen each other for a long time, etc.). It is from Arabic and literally means 'peace be upon you!'. The response to this greeting should be валейкимессалам! which also is from Arabic and means 'I also wish you peace!' Less formal, shortened forms of this greeting are салавмалейким! and салам! which are used between friends, colleagues and relatives who see each other on a regular basis. The response to both of these greetings is салам!

The difference between the two pronoun forms 'you', cen and cu3 (and their corresponding verbal endings), must also be understood by the language learner. In short, cen is the familiar 'you' and cu3 is the formal, polite, or plural form of 'you'. When addressing someone older or acquaintances, etc., the use of cu3 is in order. Even when one is addressed with cen it by no means implies that a cen response is appropriate. The best rule of thumb is to use cu3 always, at least until one becomes more knowledgeable about the nuances concerning the pronouns' usage.

болмак to be (infinitive) болуң be (imperative, singular polite or plural)

саг болуң thank you, 'be healthy'

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY NOTES

The infinitive or dictionary form of verbs in Turkmen is produced by adding the suffix -max, -mex to the root or stem of the verb. It is equivalent to English 'to (do something)':

гел-мек = 'to come'

бол-мак = 'to be, become'

To express deeper gratitude (than car болун), Turkmen may say таңры ялкасын 'God bless you'. The reply to this is биле ялкасын 'God bless both of us'.

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY NOTES

Under Soviet rule Turkmen adopted the practice of forming their family names with Russian suffixes:

- 1. the suffix +oB (after consonants) or +eB (after vowels) was added to masculine names;
- 2. the suffix +oBa (after consonants) or +eBa (after vowels) was added to feminine names.

Recently, some Turkmen have begun to eliminate this Russian suffix from their names:

Мәмет Сейетов

Мәмет Сейет

Язмырат Мәмедиев

Язмырат Мәмеди

The word адым 'my name' combines a noun aт 'name' and a first person possessive suffix +ым (after consonants), +м (after vowels).

адым

ад+ым

name-my = 'my name'

фамилиям = 'my last name'

Менин 'my' is a possessive form of the personal pronoun мен 'l'. It may be omitted before a noun with a possessive suffix:

мениң адым = 'my name'

A common type of sentence is that composed of a noun subject and a noun predicate:

SUBJECT PREDICATE

Мениң адым Жан.

= 'My name (is) John'.

Мен мугаллым.

= 'I (am) a teacher'.

3. COMPETENCY: To ask and respond about well-being иш work, thing

ишлер things (plural)

говы good, well

мугаллым 'teacher'

мугаллым-лар

иш-лер

'works, matters'

To ask a question, the particle +мы or +ми is added to the predicate of a sentence:

Говымы?

'Is it good?'

Сиз мугаллыммы? 'Are you a teacher?'

Turkmen has numerous phrases for use as greetings. Some are the more common are:

Гургунмысыңыз?

Are you well?

?ипихен синиделии?

How are things with you?

Кейпиниз көкми?

Are you in good spirits?

Өй-ичерилер гургунчылыкмы?

боляр all right, fine, o.k.

галмак to stay, remain

галың stay, remain (imperative)

хош галың goodbye, stay well

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY EXPLANATIONS

One way to express obligation or necessity is by adding the suffix +малы or +мели to the stem of a verb:

Мен гитмели = 'I should, must go'.

Мен галмалы = 'I should, must stay'.

The root or stem of a Turkmen verb functions as a simple imperative with either a familiar or impolite sense:

гел-мек 'to come'.

reл! 'come on!, come here!'

гал-мек 'to stay'.

гал! 'stay then!, stay here!'

Aside from being used as 'thank you', the expression саг болуң also can mean 'goodbye', 'so long'.

Depending on the situation, Turkmen uses different expressions when saying goodbye. Several are prefaced with боляр 'all right', 'o.k.' or боляр онда 'all right then'.

The expression саг-аман барың "go safely' is used by the host or the person staying. The expression хош галың is used by the guest or the person leaving. Other expressions used when parting are:

боляр, гөрүшйэнчэк 'all right, until we see each other'

эртире ченли 'until tomorrow'

ёлуңыз ак болсун! 'good luck, have a safe trip'

гелип дуруң 'come again'

THE TURKMEN FAMILY

Prior to Soviet rule, the extended family was the basic and most important social and economic unit among the Turkmen. Grouped according to clan, small bands of Turkmen families moved about in the desert usually consolidating only in time of war or celebration. In most cases, the families were entirely self-sufficient and subsisted on their livestock and at times on modest agricultural production. For some groups, raiding sedentary populations, especially the Iranians to the south, was an important economic activity.

Although Soviet power brought about fundamental and even drastic changes concerning the Turkmen family, many traditional aspects remain. Turkmen families continue to be close-knit and are often large (over five children). In rural areas, while no longer nomadic, families still are grouped according to clan or tribe and it is the rule rather than the exception for the inhabitants of a village to be of one lineage. Here also it is common for sons (and their wives) to remain with their parents and live in an extended one-story clay structure with courtyard and agricultural plot. In the cities, many Turkmen live in multi-storied apartment complexes called Xan. Because urban space is limited, families often have only a few children. In some places housing shortages are acute.

In both rural and urban areas respect for elders is great. While homes for the elderly do exist in Turkmenistan, Turkmen are conspicuously absent from them: it is almost unheard of for a Turkmen to commit his or her parent to such an institution, as grandparents are considered integral family members and sources of wisdom and spirituality.

Life-cycle events and other family-oriented celebrations are of extreme importance in Turkmen society. Such events are usually referred to as той and often consist of a series of gatherings and complex customs. Many celebrations vary in detail according to geographic area, clan, or tribe. Along with customs connected with birth and death, the marriage celebration (дурмуш тойы) is a most important event. In rural areas especially, marriages are often arranged by special match-makers (cabunap). Aside from finding the right match in terms of social status, education, etc., the match-makers invariably must find couples of the same clan and locale. While such practices may seem strange to Americans, most couples most have known each other before hand and freely consent to the marriage arrangement. Divorce among Turkmen is relatively rare.

One important custom connected with marriage that is still practiced in Turkmenistan is the brideprice (галын). Depending on region and a family's wealth, the bride's family may demand huge sums of money from the groom in return for the bride's hand in marriage.

Since Turkmenistan's independence, celebrations and observances connected with Islam have gained greater significance and status. Hobby3 (considered by Central Asians to be the Muslim New Year) is celebrated on March 21 (the spring equinox) with gatherings, feasts, and street festivals. Aside from this and other "universal" holidays, there are numerous localized celebrations in the country-side connected with tombs and other places of spiritual significance.

The circumcision rite (сүннет тойы) is common for all Turkmen boys and signifies their entering into Islam and taking on some adult responsibilities.

Large sums of money may also be spent on the festivities accompanying this rite.

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY NOTES

Nouns preceded by a number do not take the plural suffix $+\pi ap$:

ики йыл 'two years'

NOT ики йыллар

Adding the suffix $+ xa\kappa$, $+ xe\kappa$ to a verb stem expresses that an action will definitely occur. This definite future form can be used in any person:

Сиз Түркменистанда ишле-жек-ми? You Turkmenistan-in work-will - ?

= 'Will you work in Turkmenistan?'

Мен шу ерде ишле-жек. = 'I will work here.'

There are several ways to express 'to marry' in Turkmen. The most common way distinguishes between male and female:

1. The verb өйленмек 'to marry' is used for the marriage of a male. Өйленмек is formed from the noun өй 'home' and means 'to make a home.'

Майк, сен өйлендиңми?

'Mike, are you married?'

Ёк. Мен өйленемок.

'No I'm not married'

For the marriage of a female, the verb дурмуша чыкмак is 2. used. It consists of the noun дурмуш 'life' plus the dati з suffix +a and the verb чыкмак 'to exit, to go out'; thus, 'to go out into life."

Гүлширин дурмуша чыкды. 'Gulshirin got married.'

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY NOTES

The word fap is used in the meaning of 'there is/are, 'has/have, exists'. Adding a possessive ending to a noun before fap creates the 'to have' construction:

Дөрт гыз-ымыз бар. four daughter-our exist

= 'We have four daughters.'

Yч оглу-м бар. = 'I have three sons.'

The marker +дыр or +дир often expresses supposition, presumption, or uncertainty. English equivalents include 'suppose, think, seems':

Машгала-ңыз улы-дыр. family-your large-seems

= 'It seems you have a large family.'

Most Turkmen come from large families and they may consider it strange when they find out that someone has no brothers or sisters. Also they may feel the same way about a woman (over age 22) who is unmarried. In much of Central Asia such things traditionally mean that the woman or wife has some sort of health problem.

In Turkmen, the suffix +ды or +ди is added to a verb stem to state that an action definitely has occurred:

гит-ди 'he/she/it has gone, left, went'

Person markers can be added to this suffix:

гел-ди-ңиз 'you have come, you came'

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY NOTES

The equivalent of English 'to, for' can be expressed in Turkmen by adding the dative case suffix to a noun. This suffix has the form +a, +e after nouns ending in consonants:

отаг	room	отага	'to the room'
сиз	you	сизе	'to, for you'
өй	home	өе	'to home'

To form the construction 'to need', Turkmen usually adds the dative suffix to the subject which needs something followed by the word repek '(it is) necessary':

сиз+е герек you-to (it is) necessary = 'you need'

In Turkmen the conjunction Be 'and' can be used to join two sentences together:

Кичи отага гечиң ве гапыны япың. small room-to pass-you and door-the close-you = "Go into the small room and close the door'.

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY NOTES

The word эшигими contains the case suffix +ы, +и (after consonants), +ны, +ни (after vowels). This suffix is used to mark the definite object of a verb and often is equivalent to English 'the':

эшиг + им + и юваныныза clothes-my-the wash-ing-your-for саг болуң healthy be-you

= 'Thank you for washing my clothes'.

гапы + ны япың = 'Close the door'.

Turkmen expresses personal possession in several ways. Possessive suffixes may be added to a noun:

автобус + ым

мыхман + ымыз bus-my guest-our ишлер + иң things-your машгала + ңыз family-your 34

Possessive pronouns may stand in front of such nouns without changing the meaning:

мениң ад + ым ту пате-ту бизиң ад + ымыз our name-our сениң ад + ың your name-your сизиң ад + ыңыз your name-your

An exception may occur in the first person plural when the possessive suffix is omitted:

бизиң машгала our family

Some final consonants are pronounced with voicing when a suffix is added. This occurs because the unvoiced consonant now stands between two voiced vowels. These changes are reflected in writing:

эшик

эшигим clothes

my clothes

ат

адым

name

my name

PROVERB

Хичден гич ягшы.

'Better late than never.'

FOOD

TURKMEN FOOD

While Turkmen cuisine has much in common with the dishes of other Central Asian peoples, the Turkmen are known for distinct dishes and food preparation. A staple is flat, round bread (чөрек, нан) which is baked in a rounded oven (тамдыр) made from clay. In rural areas almost every household has a тамдыр and in cities, the yards between large housing projects are often dotted with "communal" ovens.

Milk products also form an important part of their diet. While cow's milk is common, drinks prepared from camel-milk (дуе сүйди, дуе чалы) are also favorites. Other important milk and dairy products include numerous types of butter (яг), yogurts (гатык), creams (гаймак), and a sour milk product (сузме).

Meat serves as a basis for many Turkmen dishes. Beef and lamb are very common and can be boiled or fried. Young camel also is a favorite. Other dishes are made from chicken, goat, and even horse meats, as well as from eggs.

The most common drink by far is hot tea (чай). It is of the black (гара) or green (гок) variety and is served liberally at every meal and on every occasion (even on extremely hardays). While milk beverages are common, many milk products must be eaten with a spoon or dipped in bread. Cold and iced drinks are rare and it is popularly believed that they may cause a sore throat. Pepsi and carbonated water are sold unrefrigerated in many shops. Alcohol such as vodka and cognac is consumed especially on festive occasions or when a guest is present. Males are expected to make toasts and drink -- symbolic sips and abstinence are permitted but only after one insists. Some Turkmen may consider it improper for women to drink alcohol.

While the availability of fruits and vegetables remains to a large extent seasonal, greenhouses, increased cold storage capabilities, and food imports have increased their availability year-round. Melons, grapes, apples, and apricots are just a few of the local fruits. Many fruits are dried and stored. Onions, carrots, cucumbers, tomatoes, and pumpkin are among the most used vegetables. Potatoes (usually fried) are very common and dried and fresh fish is increasingly popular.

Turkmen generally eat three meals a day. Breakfast (эртирлик надар) is usually light and consists of bread, dairy products, and tea. Cold-cuts also may be served. Because most of those who work do not go home for lunch (гүнортанлык нахар), they often eat at cafeterias located in the same building as their jobs. Whether it be at home or in a cafeteria, lunch (eaten from 2 to 3 pm) usually consists of bread, soup, milk products, and tea. In the cities street vendors sell shishkabobs (чишлик) of beef, lamb, and sometimes even pork. The main meal is eaten in the evening (агшамлык нахар) from around seven to eight. Again tea and bread are served. Meat, soup, fruit, and vegetables are also eaten.

The most popular Turkmen dishes include a variety of "soups" consisting of boiled noodles with meat, beans, and other vegetables (унаш) or of chunks of meat and potatoes mixed with vegetables and sometimes rice (чорба). Other favorite dishes are дограма (a boiled dish made from sliced up bits of bread, meat, onions), meat pies, rice pilav (палав), and ишлекли, a dish baked in the тамдыр consisting of a top and bottom crust of bread containing either meat, pumpkin, or mushrooms.

Turkmen are very hospitable and will go to much effort to entertain a guest. While tables and chairs may be used by urban Turkmens, almost all rural Turkmen take their meals sitting on the floor around a large cloth(cauhk) on which the meal is placed. As a guest one is expected to eat a lot. The guest or the oldest male in the group is invariably seated at the place of honor (Top) which is usually located opposite or farthest away from the entrance to the room.

Шу тагам маң-а ярады. this dish me-to please-d

The word JKCH often is used when one finds out that something is true which one did not expect would be true. Thus, it can have various English equivalents, including 'really, it turns out that,' or simply an emphatic 'is.'

Гапыны яп + ың door-the close-you

= 'Close the door.'

Хош гал + ың = 'Stay well; Goodbye.'

A polite way to express the idea of wanting to do something is formed by adding the suffix -ecu, -ach to the verb stem along with the verb renmer (to come). Person is indicated by a possessive suffix on the first verb while tense is indicated in the second verb:

Xат яз - асы + м гелйәр. letter write-ing my come-s

TRANSPORTATION

GETTING AROUND IN TURKMENISTAN

Public transportation is the most common form of transportation in Turkmenistan. In the cities, there are numerous bus routes and in some of the large cities, such as Ashgabat, there are trolley lines. The cost for a bus or trolley ride is two manat. Usually one must buy a sheet of five tickets on the bus itself -- the driver always has tickets and during peak hours a ticket seller comes around to sell and check tickets. One must validate a ticket by getting it punched in one of the ticket-punchers located on the bus. Buses and trolleys run often during the day and invariably are crowded. In the evening hours their number decreases to the point where one may have to wait long time at a stop. Unfortunately there are no maps available showing transportation routes -- one must simply learn which bus goes where from experience and from asking others.

Relatively few people in Turkmenistan own a car. Taxis in the cities are plentiful but fairly expensive -- when a taxi stops one must ask the driver whether he will go to the required destination; sometimes a higher fare must be negotiated. Many people also simply stand on the side of the street and signal a passing car to stop by waving their hand. If the driver agrees to take the passenger, the passenger pays the driver the "going rate" upon arrival.

Bus routes connect all of Turkmenistan's cities and villages. Major cities in Turkmenistan are connected by rail. Fairly inexpensive, a train ride can be an exciting cultural experience, especially the common overnight trips. Overnight trains offer several types of accommodations. The most common are the kyπe (a closed cubicle of four bunks) and the ππαμκαρτ car which consists of open bunks in close quarters.

Each major city in Turkmenistan has an airport. In spite of a sharp rise in ticket prices, it still may be difficult to obtain tickets. They should be purchased well in advance.

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY NOTES

A possessive relationship exists between the two nouns автобус дуралгасы. The first noun possesses the second noun, which is indicated by adding the third person possessive suffix -ы, -и (after consonants) or -сы, -си (after vowels) to the second noun:

автобус дуралга + сы bus stop-its = 'bus stop'

Unless the two nouns are perceived as a unit, the genitive case suffix -ың, -иң (after consonants) or -ның, -ниң (after vowels) may be added to the first noun:

нин + сьех

аңры

тарап + ы + нда street-of side-its-on

= 'on the other side of the street'

To express action that takes place habitually or expectedly in the present or future, Turkmen adds -яр, -йәр to the verb stem:

Шу ерден автобус гид - йәр. this place-from bus go-es

= 'The bus leaves from here.'

Ол эртир гел - йәр. = 'He's coming tomorrow'

To negate this verb tense, the marker -ма, -ме is inserted after the verb stem and before the tense suffix:

Эжем ишле - ме - йәр. mother-my work-not-s

= 'My mother doesn't work'

נ'ב'

ROLES: PCV & Ticket Seller

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY NOTES

When the dative suffix -a is added to a noun ending in a vowel, the suffix replaces that vowel even if it is the same vowel:

Мары

Map - a

Mary

Mary-to

When the noun ends in the vowels -e or - μ , however, the dative suffix -ə replaces these:

көче

көч - ә

street street-to

To indicate an action that should occur in the future, Turkmen adds the suffix -ap, -ep (after consonants) or -p (after vowels) to the verb stem:

Отлы сагат нәчеде угра-р? train hour what-at leave-will

= 'What time does the train leave.'

Personal endings may be added directly to this suffix:

Эшигими юв-ар-ын. clothes-my-the wash-will-l

= 'I will wash my clothes.'

The most common means of joining two sentences together involves adding the suffix $- \upmu \pi$, $- \upmu \pi$ (after consonants) or $- \upmu$ (after vowels) to the verb stem of the first sentence. It is understood that the tense or mood and person of the first sentence will be expressed in the verb of the second sentence:

Сагат он бирде уграр. Бәшиң ярына барар.

= Сагат он бирде уграп бәшиң ярына барар.

= 'It will leave at 11 o'clock and arrive about 4:30.'

ON TURKMENISTAN'S STREETS

Prior to the coming of the Russians in the late 19th century, there were very few urban areas in Turkmenistan and many of the large towns and cities that exist today were developed after the 1930's. Ashgabat, the capital and largest city in Turkmenistan, has a population of about 420,000. Other major cities are Krasnovodsk on the Caspian Sea coast, Mary in the Southeast, Chardzhou on the Amu Darya in the East, and Dashkhovuz in the Northeast. Because much of the Russian population only came to Turkmenistan in the Soviet period, separate Russian quarters or neighborhoods never developed in Turkmenistan's cities as they did elsewhere in Centra! Asia. This, combined with a relatively small Slavic population, has led to Slavs and Turkmen living in the same neighborhoods and housing projects.

Since Turkmenistan's independence, the names of many streets, institutions, collective farms, etc. have been changed to reflect Turkmen heroes, culture, and national aspirations. As a result, some confusion has arisen concerning addresses and directions.

In 1948 Ashgabat suffered a tremendous earthquake and even today the facts concerning the number of dead and amount of damage are unclear. Many of the older buildings which did exist were destroyed and an extensive rebuilding project was undertaken. A simple mass grave of earthquake victims is located near Turkmen State University. Many cities, especially Ashgabat, are continuing to grow and numerous large housing projects are under construction.

Most cities have paved streets, electricity, plumbing, and natural gas. In rural areas such may not be the case. The difference between living conditions and standards in the city (məxep) versus the village (oba) is immense. Aside from the material differences, there are also many disparities in terms of culture and way of life. Thanks to the rebirth of national culture the village has assumed a more prominent role in Turkmen society as it is considered a valuable repository of Turkmen language and traditional culture.

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY NOTES

The verb form билйэн 'l know' is the short form in -я, -йэ of the standard present tense in -яр, -йэр. Both are widely used without any difference in grammatical meaning:

бил-йән

} 'I know'

бил-йәрин

Turkmen forms the negative of the present-past tense (no affirmative form exists) by adding a contraction of a verbal form combined with personal suffixes (-am, -ah, etc.) followed by a negating element -ok. Use of this form implies that an action has never taken place:

бил-ем-ок know-i-not

= 'I do not know'
(I have not known before, and I don't know now) бил-ең-ок-мы know-you-not?

= 'do you (not) know?'

The conditional mood of the verb is formed by means of the suffix -ca, -ce plus one of the personal endings:

йөре-се-ңиз walk-if-you

= 'if you walk'

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY NOTES

Two nouns that stand in possessive relationship may possess another noun with the addition of the genitive suffix -ның, -ниң:

Marтымгулы Magtymguly

көче + си street-his

= 'Magtymguly Street'

Mагтымгулы Magtymguly көче + си + ниң street-his-of етишинжи seventieth жай + ы + нда place-its-at

= 'at building 70 of Magtymguly Street'

The definite past tense is negated by inserting the suffix -мa. -мe between the verb stem and the tense marker:

дүшүндим

'I understand'

душунмедим

'I don't understand'

ялнышдым

'I was mistaken'

ялнышмадым

'I wasn't mistaken'

A common way to make a polite request is to add the suffix -саңызлаң, -сеңизләң to a verb stem:

MARKETS AND STORES IN TURKMENISTAN

While the economic situation has deteriorated somewhat in Turkmenistan in recent years, the overall standard of living has not dropped as dramatically as it has in other former Soviet republics. Economic reforms have been modest and the majority of businesses remain state-owned. Thanks to government subsidies and price controls, basic food products continue to be fairly affordable. One of the most important modifications in economic policy took effect in early 1993 when President Niyazov decreed that natural gas, water, and electricity would be supplied virtually free of charge to all homes in Turkmenistan for an indefinite period. Gasoline and other fuels are also very cheap, especially compared to neighboring republics. The primary reasons for such economic stability stem from the fact that Turkmenistan has a relatively small population and is rich in important resources such as natural gas and oil.

In spite of such favorable economic conditions, there is a noticeable lack of affordable consumer goods. Quality clothing and shoes are especially hard to get. State stores often are almost bare while the items offered by the numerous small privately owned stores lack variety and are prohibitively expensive to the average citizen. There is no equivalent a supermarket; instead there are specialty stores labeled "milk store", "bread store", and the like. In the state stores it is still sometimes necessary to get a ticket with the price of the item, go pay for the item at a different cash register, and then return the receipt to the clerk to receive the item.

An important alternative to the state and private stores is the private market (bazaar). Throughout Turkmenistan there are generally three types of markets. The first type contains spices, produce and other food products. These markets are open daily and consist of stalls or booths from which the sellers, usually farmers from the country side, offer their products. In another type of bazaar, often open only on weekends, individuals come to sell everything from old clothing, used household appliances, and even cars to sweets, vegetables, cooked products and very interesting items of traditional Turkmen material culture. These items include antique silver jewelry, traditional women's clothing, men's sheepskin hats, and the beautiful world-famous carpets. Here bargaining skills are very important. The third type of market deals in livestock such as cattle, sheep, goats, horses, and camels. It too is usually open only on weekends. All markets draw large crowds of both city and village folk and are colorful and extremely interesting for the foreigner. The largest markets are in Ashgabat.

The basic monetary unit in Turkmenistan continues to be the Soviet-Russian rouble which is called manat (Mahat) in Turkmen. There has been talk of introducing a local Turkmen currency, but government officials insist that such plans are in the preliminary stages of development.

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY NOTES

When a word contains the third person possessive suffix +ы, +и (after consonants) +сы, +си (after vowels), this indicates that the word is possessed by the preceding noun. The preceding noun may or may not have the genitive suffix +ның, +ниң:

миве сог+ы fruit juice' = 'fruit juice' көчэ+ниң саг+ы+нда street-of right-its-on = 'on the right side of the street'

The possessing noun may be omitted:

Булар these ИН сүйжи most sweet гавунлар. Кило+сы... Kilo-its...

'These are the sweetest melons. A kilo...

Килосы in this sentence is possessed by гавунлар:

(гавунлар)

кило+сы

(melon-s)

There are several ways to indicate the comparative in Turkmen.

1. addition of the suffix +pak, +pek to a noun:

арзан

'cheap'

арзанрак

'cheaper'

сүйжи

'sweet'

сүйҗүрәк

'sweeter'

addition of the ablative +дан, +ден to the noun being compared: 2.

Бу гавунлар арзан.

'These melons are cheap.'

Бу гавунлар узумден арзан.

'These melons are cheaper than the grapes'

Turkmen forms the superlative by placing the word иң 'most' before an adjective:

арзан

'cheap'

иң арзан

'cheapest'

сүйжи

'sweet'

иң сүйжи

'sweetest'

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY NOTES

The suffix $+\pi a$, $+\pi e$ forms the locative case in Turkmen and usually is equivalent to English 'in, on, at':

Meн Түркменистан+да ики йыл ишлежек I Turkmenistan-in two years work-will

= 'I will work in Turkmenistan for two years.'

Илчихана нире+де ерлешйәр?= 'Where is the embassy located'

This suffix also has an instrumental function equivalent to 'by':

эл+де докалан hand-in woven

= 'woven by hand, hand-woven'

A Jommon and polite way to address elders is to use kinship terms. The word ага 'older brother' is equivalent to 'sir' in English while дайза 'aunt' is like 'ma'am.'

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY NOTES

Turkmen adds the suffix -ан, -ен, -эн to verb stems to form relative clauses equivalent to English 'which (is), that (is).' This suffix denotes a completed action:

пагтадан cotton-from эдил-ен made-which was ak white көйнек shirt

= 'a white shirt made of cotton'

Such formations also function as predicates of sentences:

АБШның илчиханасы ниреде ерлеш-ен? USA-of embassy-its where-at locate-d

= 'Where is the USA embassy located?'

Бу халы элде докалан. this carpet hand-by wove-n

= 'This carpet is woven by hand'

In the sentence Сизе наме герекди?, the suffix +ди is a past tense form that can be added to words. The sentence translates as 'What did you need?'

The suffix -жакдым, -жекдим is a first person form that expresses an existing intention or wish to be completed in the future. Usually its English equivalents are 'would, would like to, want':

Meн билет сатын ал-жак-ды-м. l ticket selling buy-will-have-l

= 'I would like to buy a ticket.'

Көйнек ал-жак-ды-м. = 'I would like to buy a shirt.'

COMMUNICATIONS IN TURKMENISTAN

Turkmenistan is experiencing many problems concerning communications technology. The telephone network is weakly developed and many homes and villages lack telephone service. Telephone books for the most part do not exist. While phone booths may be found in cities, coins for them are very hard to find.

A call to the United States may be ordered at a telephone and telegraph office. Many times this requires going to the office, ordering and paying for the call, and then waiting up to an hour until the call is placed. The quality of the connection for both international calls and internal calls is often poor.

Recently fax machines and electronic mail systems have begun to appear in Turkmenistan. However, these are often expensive and unreliable. Apparently, it is not possible to wire money to Turkmenistan, and traveler's checks and credit cards are not accepted.

The postal system is slow and letters are sometimes lost. The Ministry of Culture must approve international shipment of all items except books.

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY NOTES

Adding the suffix -макчы, -мекчи to a verb stem expresses an intention or wish to do something:

Сиз нәме ибер-мекчи? you what send-intend

= 'What do you want to send?'

Turkmen distinguishes between indefinite and definite ('the') objects. An indefinite object is unmarked, while a definite object has the accusative suffix +ы, +и:

Мен телпек, дон, китап ибермекчи. I hat robe book send-intend

= 'I want to send hats, robes, and books.'

Сиз китаплар+ы иберип билерсиңиз. you book-s-the send-and know how-will-you

= 'You can send the books.'

The suffix -мак, -мек can serve not only as the infinitive marker in Turkmen (ибермек 'to send'), but also can make a verb into a noun ('sending'):

башга зат ибер-мек үчин other thing send-to in order to

= 'in order to send other things'

Посылка ибер-мек мүмкин. parcel send-ing possible

= 'Sending parcels is possible.'

Бренда Brenda

Мәхри Mekhri ('compassion' - female name)

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULAY NOTES

Besides making a word plural, the suffix $+\pi ap$, $+\pi ep$ can mean 'house or family of' when added to a last name, just as in English:

Дурдыев

'Durdyyev'

Дурдыевлер

'the Durdyyevs'

Adding this suffix to the numeral for an hour indicates an approximate time after that hour:

сагат

алты-лар-да

hour

six-es-at

= 'at sometime after six o'clock (but before seven)'

The word $o\pi$ serves both as a demonstrative pronoun ('that') and as the third person personal pronoun. In the third person, $o\pi$ is used for all three genders: 'he, she, it'. However, context nearly always makes clear who is meant by $o\pi$:

Мехри

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY NOTES

The past subjective tense is formed by adding the suffix -ыпдыр, -ипдир (plus personal endings) to the verb stem. This tense indicates among other things an action completed in the past which was not witnessed by the speaker. In English it may be translated using the simple past or past perfect tense:

Берди

гид-ипдир.

Berdi

concert-to go-has gone

= 'Berdi has gone to a concert (but I was not there when he went)'.

Besides indicating future tense at the end of a sentence, a verb with the suffix -xak, -xek also functions as a noun and can be the object of a verb:

гел-жег-и-ни

билмедим.

his home-to coming-will-his-the know-not-l

= 'I don't know when he will come home'.

Many Turkmen do not use the specific words such as дүшенбе 'Monday,' сешенбе 'Tuesday,' etc., for the days of the week. Instead, they use the numerals 1-7 with the ordinal suffix -ынжы, -ижи (after consonants), -нжы, -ижи (after vowels), before the word гүн day:

биринжи гүн 'first day (=Monday)'

икинжи гүн 'second day (=Tuesday)'

Topic 8

HEALTH CARE IN TURKMENISTAN

The health care system inherited from the Soviet regime is fraught with deficiencies. On the whole, physicians are poorly trained, current medical technologies are almost unheard of, and many basic medicines are in short supply. As a result, treatment is often primitive. The care, however, which does exist, is in principal free and accessible to most urban residents. Only recently have medical professionals begun to (legally) offer their services for a price.

Most citizens are registered at a clinic to which they must go when care is needed. The registration may be based on one's geographic location or place of employment. Ambulance service does exist but may be unreliable.

In the countryside medical care is often deplorable, at least in terms of Western standards. Here, as in the urban areas, many medical problems stem from and are exacerbated by poor diet, polluted drinking water, and industrial wastes and pesticides. Such problems are especially acute in the northeast areas of the country near the Amu Darya river and Aral Sea. Women in their child bearing years and children seem to be in the poorest health and the most susceptible to disease and sickness.

Perhaps for all the reasons described above, many people of Turkmenistan have once again turned to "traditional" medicine. Healers employing herbs and prayer are common and in some rural areas this type "medicine" may be the only type readily available.

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY NOTES

Turkmen makes frequent use of a special construction to express the manner in which an action is completed. This construction consists of two verbs. The first verb indicates the main action and has the suffix $-\mathbf{h}\Pi$, $-\mathbf{h}\Pi$ (after consonants) $-\Pi$ (after vowels). The second verb is one of a limited number of common verbs, each of which expresses, in combination with the first verb, some nuance:

гөрмек 'to see' > 'to try'

Гейип гөржекми? wear-and see-will-?

= 'Will you try it on?'

Мен сынанып гөрейин. I try-and see-let me

= 'Let me give it a try' билмек 'to know, know how' > 'to be able, can'

Сиз китаплары иберип билерсиниз you book-s-the send-and know how-will-you

= 'You will be able to send the books' бермек 'to give' > 'to do something for someone'

Оны кагыза долап берсеңизләң. it-the paper-in wrap-and give-you-please

= 'Please wrap it up for me.'

As a rule, the question particle $+M\,\text{M}$, $+M\,\text{M}$ is added to the end of nouns and most verb forms:

Конеми?

'ls (it) old?'

Сен биленокми?

'Do you (not) know?'

However, the particle can be added directly to tense suffixes before personal endings:

Мениң

my ериме place-my-for сапак lesson гечирип conduct-and билер-ми-сиң?

know how-will-?-you

= 'Can you conduct lessons in my place?'

Сиз она йыгнак you him-to meeting

= 'Will you tell him there will be a meeting?'

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY NOTES

A verb the suffix - $\mu\pi$, - $\mu\pi$ (after consonants) - π (after vowels) usually must precede a verb that has tense and person suffixes. The two verbs may combine to express aspects of action:

гейип гөрейин

'let me try it on'

Or the two verbs may serve as the main verbs of two sentences formed together:

Мырат

LIFE IN TURKMENISTAN

In some respects, life in Turkmenistan differs quite noticeably from that in the other Central Asian republics. There has been relatively little economic, political, or social upheaval in Turkmenistan and a general sense of calm reigns. The religious and ethnic problems that seem to plague the rest of the former Soviet Union seemingly are absent in Turkmenistan. Some attribute this to the so-called unobtrusive and kind nature of the Turkmen. Others see this as stemming from the sometimes oppressive climate.

The summers in Turkmenistan are long (May - late September) and dry and may be unbearably hot to Westerners (over 110 degrees). Are conditioners are available and are highly recommended. In the summer the pace of everyday life slows and during the early to mid-afternoon people generally stay indoors and shops and businesses are usually closed. Winters may be cold and damp, especially in the north, but in most areas snowfall is limited.

The desert areas which comprise the vast majority of Turkmenistan's territory contain large sand dunes and various rare species of flora and fauna. Here there are several large well-known national parks. In the desert, strong winds blow year-round and may bring dust into the urban areas. In fact, all that separates cities and towns from the desert are the large and extensive canals which bring water for both drinking and irrigation. The largest canal, the Kara Kum Canai, stretches west from the Amu Darya river some 800 kilometers to Ashgabat.

AT THE WORKPLACE

EDUCATION IN TURKMENISTAN

While the education system in Turkmenistan possesses many traits of the old Soviet system, there are significant modifications underway. In large part, these changes are a response to both a national cultural rebirth and factors connected with the government's attempts to produce a highly skilled work force capable of assisting Turkmenistan's participation in international business and trade activities.

Formal schooling begins with the kindergarten (багча) and primary school (мекдеп). The school year begins on September 1 with classes beginning at 9 am and ending at 2 pm; Saturdays are included but the hours are shorter. In some areas where facilities are lacking there are two shifts (смена), one in the morning (эртир) and the other in the afternoon (өйлән). Pupils generally graduate after completing the tenth grade; some, however, opt for leaving in the ninth grade so that they may enter a trade or technical school. Students may also continue their education at one of the dozens of specialized institutes or at Turkmen State University in Ashgabat. Here the course of study may take up to five years. Graduate study (аспирантура) is an option for outstanding students. Study and research in graduate school can be carried out at the university or in one of the many Academy of Science's research institutes.

Admittance into higher education institutions is often extremely competitive and contacts and connections may play a role in gaining entry and later advancement. Prospective students must pass a pressure-packed entrance examination (гириш экзамени) which stretches over two weeks in August. This exam, as all other tests and evaluations in the Turkmen educational system, consists of both written and oral parts.

The curriculum followed by schools is standardized with little variation among the country's school "districts". One class which has been added recently to both primary and higher education curriculums is $\Im Ae\pi$ which can be translated as 'proper (social) behavior/conduct'. In this class young people are taught Turkmen cultural norms, including religious (Islamic) history and principles.

While education generally is free of charge, some institutions are changing this policy. Other recent developments include the sending of large numbers of university and institute students abroad, especially to Turkey. Attempts are being made to decrease the number of years one must study so that girls may finish their higher education by their 20th or 21st birthday -- by this time girls are expected to be married.

Two languages which have gained increasing importance in the curriculum are Turkmen and English. There is pressure on non-Turkmen to learn Turkmen and many adults study Turkmen in special courses or at their workplace. English has been declared the "third state language" after Turkmen and Russian and there have been serious efforts made to improve English language capabilities. The Latin alphabet is scheduled to replace the Cyrillic in the mid-1990's.

In spite of some improvements and changes, severe shortages of school supplies such as textbooks, technology such as computers, school buildings, and qualified teachers continue to hinder success. The schools which cater to the Slavic population (those schools in which instruction is in Russian) are considered better than the much more numerous Turkmen-language schools.
